

VERSATILITY OF ERVLEN SHOWN BY HIS COOK BOOK

State Land Commissioner Tells How New Mexico Vettles
Should Be Fixed and Incidentally Boosts State.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)
Santa Fe, April 30.—It has long been a matter of common knowledge that Robert P. Ervlen, commissioner of public lands, is a man of unusual versatility, but it is not so generally known that he is an adept in the culinary art, if one may judge from the evidence at hand in the form of a most attractive booklet recently issued by the state land office under the title of "New Mexico Cookery."

The cover design is characteristic of New Mexico, showing an adobe house adorned with long strings of red chile drying in the warm autumn sunshine, with stately Lombardy poplars in the background.

In this booklet are to be found many recipes that are published for the first time, more especially those that concern the preparation of dishes in which chile forms a principal ingredient. At first glance it might appear that a cook book is a rather round-about way in which to advertise the resources of New Mexico, but in an interview with a representative of this paper Mr. Ervlen stated that this special cook book has a mission in the field of literature very similar to that of the hymn book which advertised a certain brand of patent medicine. He said that in a little county village, in the effete east, once upon a time, as the story runs, a struggling church was most anxious to secure a supply of hymn books, but not having the funds necessary to purchase them, the minister of the church was on the alert for a generous donor of the books. One day a traveling agent for a patent medicine was in the village and hearing of the minister's perplexity the agent called upon him and offered to present the church the desired number of hymn books, providing the minister would consent to having advertisements of the patent medicine which the agent represented printed in the books.

Takes Cue From Books.
The minister was loath to accept the books on those terms, for it seemed almost like a desecration to him, but he certainly wanted those hymn books, and after consulting with his trustees, he finally concluded that it would be excusable under the circumstances to take the gift so opportunely offered, and the agent was so notified. The day before Christmas the hymn books arrived, and after a hasty glance through the books it was with feelings of joy and gratitude that the minister failed to detect any indication of an advertisement, and came to the conclusion that the agent had repented of the commercial character of his gift, and in the generosity of his better nature had sent the books without the objectionable advertisements.

Christmas morning found a new hymn book in every pew, and with a beaming face the minister arose and requested the congregation to sing "Hymn No. 34." Imagine his consternation when these words greeted his ear:

"Hark the herald angels sing,
Take Punks pills for anything—
Peace on earth and mercy mild,
Two for a man and one for a child."

That's like Bob's cook book. Reading between the lines of every recipe is the biggest kind of an advertisement for New Mexico, telling the story of a wonderfully fertile land and giving the manner of cooking the products of the soil as "Those to the manner born" have been accustomed to prepare them for generations, giving publicity to a personal knowledge of this special kind of cookery acquired only after many years of patient endeavor.

This little brochure on New Mexico cookery is a valuable contribution to New Mexican literature, and every citizen of the state, as well as many of those outside its boundaries, will want a copy of this unique booklet, and if it accomplishes its mission of bringing to the attention of its readers a better understanding of the use of the special products of the soil of New Mexico, as well as an appreciation of the fertility of this land, this booklet will have served a most excellent purpose. Mr. Ervlen stated that this booklet is for free distribution, and if any one desiring it sent to either herself or her friends will kindly send names and addresses to the state land office, with request for the booklet on New Mexico cookery, it will be mailed directly as desired.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—
Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known
Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, by which they know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter that one's system collects.

If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women, as well as men, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel—10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

LEGAL GRIST IS GROUND OUT BY SUPREME COURT

Several Cases of Importance Handed Down by High Tribunal; Motions for Rehearing Are Denied by Judges.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)
Santa Fe, April 30.—The following decisions were rendered by the supreme court yesterday:

Thomas N. Wilkerson, appellee vs. from Bernalillo county. Motion for rehearing denied.

Raton Water Works company, plaintiff in error, vs. the City of Raton, defendant in error. From Colfax county.

This is upon the motion of defendant in error to strike from the files the assignment of errors and to affirm the judgment of the district court on the grounds that errors are in some instances multifarious, in others too general and that all are defective, etc. Motion to affirm denied.

Syllabus by the Court.

1. Held, that section 4490, Code 1915, does not authorize dismissal of cases and affirmance of judgment because of defectively stated assignment of errors, but only where assignment of errors have not been filed on or before the return day.

Opinion by Parker, J.; Hanna, J., and Michen, D. J., concurring.

Hilda Edenstein, appellant, vs. A. T. & S. F. Railway company, appellee. Valencia county.

The appellant brought suit on the contract of carriage, to-wit, a bill of lading for $672.89 damages for the loss of a trunk forwarded by freight from Belen, N. M., to Santa Barbara, Calif., in December, 1913. From a judgment for $25 in favor of appellant this appeal is taken by her. Judgment affirmed.

Syllabus by the Court.

1. Where the appellant alleges that an interstate shipment was made by her agent, she is not in position to question the authority of the agent to place upon the same a released valuation limiting the liability of the carrier.

2. Where appellant fails to question findings and conclusions by the trial court, and fails to call attention to the omission, such omission is not available here.

3. A shipper of an interstate shipment is conclusively presumed to know the shipping rate according to the printed and posted tariffs filed with the Interstate Commerce commission, and that rate authentically attaches to each shipment according to the declared value there.

4. A limitation of liability of an interstate carrier, based upon the declared value of a shipment, is not a contract exempting the carrier from its own negligence.

Opinion by Parker, J.; Roberts, C. J., and Hanna, J., concurring.

M. T. Moriarty, appellant, vs. Julius Meyer, et al., appellees. Bernalillo county.

This is an appeal from the district court of Bernalillo county from a judgment on action in replevin to recover a banker's safe. Judgment of the court below affirmed.

Syllabus by the Court.

1. A corporation is not liable on contracts made by its promoters before it is incorporated, in the absence of an adoption thereof, by it.

2. An adoption by a corporation of contracts made in its behalf by promoters before its incorporation may be express or implied. Where the corporation receives the benefits thereof, with full knowledge of the facts, and implied adoption by way of estoppel takes place.

3. Whether the doing of certain acts by an officer of a corporation, after its incorporation was with intent to adopt the promoter's contract or not is a question of fact for the determination of the jury.

4. When the findings of the trial court are supported by substantial evidence, the same will not be disturbed on appeal. Opinion by Parker, J.; Roberts, C. J., concurring; Hanna, J., not participating.

The New Mexico-Colorado Coal and Mining company, a corporation, plaintiff in error, vs. J. R. Baker, et al., defendants in error. On motion for rehearing. Rehearing denied.

An objection made in this court to the action of the trial court in instructing a jury after argument, cannot be entertained where the question was first raised in the motion for a new trial, and no request was made in the trial court, that the jury be instructed before argument, and no objection or exception was made or taken to the action of the court in instructing the jury after argument.

Opinion by Hanna, J.; Parker, J., concurring; Roberts, C. J., not participating.

MINERS SCORE GREAT VICTORY OVER OPERATORS

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEADER WIRE)
New York, April 30.—The joint subcommittee of anthracite committee of operators and miners which has been attempting to negotiate a new contract for the hard coal fields, announced shortly before 2 o'clock this morning that a satisfactory tentative agreement had been reached.

The agreement recognizes the United Mine Workers of America, grants an eight hour working day, and a 1 per cent increase for contract miners with a 3 per cent increase for day workers.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

William S. Hart, the noted film star who appears regularly in Triangle Kay-Bee features, makes a specialty of playing western characters. He himself was raised on the plains of North Dakota among the Sioux Indians, so he knows something about making them true to life. But while his delineations constitute a wide gallery of western figures, he prefers one special type. This is the western "bad man."

"I like him best," says Mr. Hart, "because he is the most maligned person west of the Mississippi, and I enjoy presenting him from the angle that shows himself for what he truly is. I knew some famous western bad men in the early days of the Dakotas; but I never met one whose badness was indicative of the real man."

"The conventional bad man has become a veritable studio lay-figure; my present mission in life is to put some humanity in him. Something of my wish seems to have been conveyed to the men who write scenarios for me; for they frequently write me bad man parts. Heretofore, the constant villain has been given largely as contrast to the hero, or to work some mean piece of business in the plot; but as a central figure without complete conversion from lifetime habits, I believe he is more or less of a novelty."

FLORENCE LA BADE IN FIVE NEW SERIES

Two of the eight new feature productions starring Florence La Bade, to be released under the title of "Thanhouser Classics," have been completed and will be released in the near future. "The Fugitive," a five-part drama, will be the first picture in the series. In this drama Miss La Bade appears in the role of a young heiress who accepts exile in preference to having her widowed sister sent to prison. The story is novel in theme and replete with action.

Psychology, treated from an angle never before attempted in motion picture production, is the basic theme of "Woman, Saint and Devil," the second picture in the series. It deals with a quadruple personality, and is founded on a recent discovery by a celebrated psychologist.

last year. In one of the dry farming districts Mr. Gonzales arranged for a conference. Ten farmers attended the meeting, each bringing one dozen ears of what he considered his best corn. The conference was a decided success and stimulated considerable interest. All the farmers confessed that never before had their attention been directed to the possibilities of crop improvement through the selection of seed. Before the conference ended the farmers had learned a great deal about corn seed and by unanimous consent, agreed that Faustino Lopez had the best corn at the meeting, his corn complying closest to the description of the most uniform type of ear; one of solid color, filled to the tip with corn in the greatest number of rows, with the deepest kernels, on the smallest cob.

The conference was last year. This year Mr. Lopez is very proud because he planted and raised the best corn in the neighborhood. The farmers who attended the first demonstration, and all their friends, are now convinced that it pays with big interest to select their corn for seed. Mr. Lopez sold his seed corn at prices ranging from $2 to $3 per hundred, while his fellow farmers sold theirs at $1.50 per hundred after hauling it thirty miles to market. The Lopez experiment proved conclusively that intelligent seed selection makes a vast difference, and means real money to the farmer. All the farmers in the neighborhood of the Lopez farm are now converted to the better corn campaign. They have seen his corn ears and handled the uniform type he raised, called the "San Miguel County White Dent corn."

County Agent Gonzales estimates that 10,000 pounds of this standardized corn could have been sold in the county this year, as it is acclimated and very well adapted to conditions. Seven carloads of seed of various cereals were imported into San Miguel county this year, but the farmers did not dare import the corn, fearing that seed that is not acclimated would not be planted with assurance of a good crop.

Now that the campaign is begun County Agent Gonzales is confident that next year there will be plenty of well acclimated seed corn to supply all the farmers of the county, who have at last come to realize what is perhaps the A. B. C. of corn production in Iowa, Illinois, Kansas and many other states, but which to many of the farmers in San Miguel it was necessary to learn; that seed selection is the first essential of a successful corn crop.

THE TEST THAT TELLS

Is the Test of Time. Many Albuquerque People Have Made This Test.

Years ago this Albuquerque citizen told in a public statement the benefit derived from Doan's Kidney Pills. The statement is now confirmed—the testimony complete. Instances like this are numerous. They doubly prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills. Can any Albuquerque reader demand more convincing proof? It's Albuquerque testimony—it may be investigated.

Mrs. E. Adair, 223 S. Edith St., Albuquerque, says: "I had pain in my back below my shoulder blades. When I was on my feet or walking around, I didn't feel the trouble but the minute I sat down, the pain began. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills brought relief. I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are just as good as they are claimed to be." (Statement given Jan. 31, 1917).

OVER SIX YEARS LATER Mrs. Adair said: "I use Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally as I find need of them, and I always get quick and sure relief." Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Adair has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

WOUNDED MAIDEN WEDS LOVER AND WILL GET WELL

Meanwhile Jealous Suitor Who Attempted Murder Is in Jail
Awaiting Grand Jury Action; Romance Culminates

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)
Artesia, N. M., April 30.—Flora Martinez, shot and seriously wounded by a jealous suitor a few weeks ago, is married, and according to the doctors in charge of her case, will soon recover from the effects of the wound. Thus ends the final chapter in a pretty romance, excepting, of course, the dark side which relates to the trial and probable conviction of the villain, who is at present spending his days in the Eddy county jail, waiting for the next session of the grand jury.

Flora Martinez was a poor girl, whose father and mother are dead and who lived with her uncle, John Angular, a hardworking section man, in Artesia. Her cousin, Jesus Angular, loved Flora and wished to marry her, but Jesus was a "fresh" young fellow who tried to play the sport, and his attentions were in no way welcome. Instead, she preferred Felix Basquez, a sober, industrious young man, who had the respect and confidence of everyone in the community.

Jesus a Bad Actor.
Jesus did not take kindly to Felix when he found that his cousin preferred him, and matters came to a head at a dance one night, which Jesus attended armed with a pistol and a bad disposition, but in spite of all the threatening signs nothing much out of the way occurred, and apparently the next day all was serene. The marriage of Flora and Felix was to come off the following Saturday, and all of the native population in Artesia was preparing for the big event.

That Sunday morning, when no one but the women of the house were at home, Jesus came to the little house on the railroad right-of-way, and shot Flora in the face with a heavy revolver. He was captured soon after and taken to jail the same day and the doctors who called on Flora told her friends that there was but little hope of saving her life. Felix at once gave up all work he had on hand and devoted himself to the injured girl. Night and day he stayed by her side, hoping against hope that she might recover from the terrible wound and live to marry him. At last they determined that they would be married in spite of her condition, and the priest from Carlsbad came to Artesia, and the ceremony was performed with Flora in bed, apparently at death's door. Just what Jesus said when he learned that Flora and Felix had been married is not recorded. Probably it is not printable.

Girl Will Recover.
Then the sick girl began to mend. The doctor could not locate the bullet, and at last it was decided that in her agonized coughing, immediately after being shot, she must have spit out the heavy bullet, and with that fortune of the case eliminated he announced to the bride and groom that in all probability Flora would soon recover from a wound that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred would have proved fatal. Every day sees her gaining in strength, and within a few days she will be out of bed, and within a few weeks she will be able to go out of doors again, a strong, well girl.

What happens to Jesus doesn't concern Flora and Felix in the least. If the court finds him guilty and sends him away out of their lives for many years well and good. They will be sorry for him, but it matters very little. If he is turned loose, also well and good. Felix is simply able to care for and protect his young wife, and Jesus would be a hardy soul to try to start anything again. All that interests Flora and Felix just now is how soon Flora will be able to get out and enjoy the sunshine and the springtime after her long fight with death staring her in the face—a fight that she won by a narrow margin through the loving care and attention of her husband.
